

TEJO

MODULAR IN NATURE

Flexible, sustainable, naturally elegant – Tejo is the pioneering new furniture collection from Isomi.

Made by recycling cork waste from the production of wine stoppers, the recyclable sofa system helps preserve Portugal's cork forests and marks a major step towards the circular economy.

Combining soft contours, tactile surfaces, and clean, clear aesthetics, Tejo is the beautiful, practical and environmentally conscientious seating solution for contemporary interior settings. Each base module replaces plywood in its construction and is crafted solely from natural, renewable, and recyclable cork material. Our seating elements are designed to replace foam with natural latex and wool, while the fabrics are sourced from flax and hemp harvested in the UK.

Led by the properties of the material and the production process, Tejo represents a bold new approach to sustainable furniture design and a commitment to low-carbon, zero-waste production.

SUSTAINABLE IN DESIGN

Tejo is recycled and recyclable – a closed-loop sustainable system.

Grown in responsibly managed forests in Alentejo, Portugal, cork trees reach maturity in 25 years, after which their bark can be harvested every nine years without harming the tree – making cork one of the most rapidly regenerating natural materials available.

To make Tejo, Isomi uses waste cork from the production of wine stoppers. Blocks of recycled cork are cut to size and shaped by hand. Waste is minimal, and any offcuts or dust generated in the process are simply returned to the beginning of the process and remade into cork blocks – a zero-waste production cycle.

VERSATILE IN CONFIGURATION

Modularity is key to the Tejo concept.

From a simple bench to single and double back-to-back sofas, Tejo offers the scope to create seating for all kinds of commercial space. From offices and retail units to hotels and hospitality environments, the system offers the aesthetic and functional versatility to suit the needs of the setting.

Tejo's core system comprises three island units of different depths, which can be arranged alongside one another to create continuous seating installations of any size or shape. Opt for a natural cork surface, or go upholstered – natural fabrics in a range of colours allow Tejo to complement any contemporary design scheme.

With a variety of curved and straight module options available, Tejo can be configured and reconfigured in countless different ways, inviting you to play with different layouts to create a sculptural seating landscape.

FLEXIBLE IN FUNCTION

Whatever the layout of the space – private and enclosed or open and communal – Tejo fits right in.

The sofa system includes a host of optional elements that enhance its function, including table units and planters – perfect for adding a further touch of nature to the interior. Screen dividers can be introduced to create privacy zones, and integrated power and USB charging can be easily mounted into the cork base, making the system as well suited to collaborative workspaces as it is for waiting areas and lounges.

And, because Tejo is designed for disassembly, part-replacement and recycling, it can move with the business and adapt as needs change.
